Company Policy Handbook

Document Version: 1.0 | Effective Date: 1 January 2026 | Department: Human Resources

1. Office Timings

The standard working hours are Monday to Friday, from 9:30 AM to 6:30 PM. Employees are expected to be available during core hours from 10:00 AM to 5:30 PM. Employees working on client assignments may follow project-specific schedules communicated by their managers.

2. Attendance Policy

Employees must record their attendance using the organization's approved attendance system. Employees who expect to arrive late or leave early should inform their reporting manager in advance whenever possible. Repeated unapproved late arrivals may be reviewed by the manager and HR.

3. Leave Policy

Employees are entitled to 12 casual leaves and 12 sick leaves per calendar year. Leave balances are subject to the employee's employment terms and applicable company rules. Casual leave should normally be requested at least one working day in advance. For unexpected illness, the employee should notify the reporting manager as soon as reasonably possible.

4. Work From Home Policy

Employees may work from home when permitted by their project requirements and reporting manager. A work-from-home request should normally be submitted at least one working day in advance. Employees working remotely must remain reachable during core working hours and must have a suitable working environment.

5. Work From Home Eligibility

Work-from-home approval depends on business requirements, project commitments, employee performance, and manager approval. Client-specific policies may override the general work-from-home policy.

6. Notice Period

The standard notice period for a confirmed employee is 60 calendar days unless a different period is specified in the employee's appointment letter or employment agreement. Notice-period exceptions require approval from the appropriate management authority and HR.

7. Code of Conduct

Employees are expected to maintain professional behavior, respect colleagues, protect company property, and follow applicable workplace policies. Harassment, discrimination, intimidation, violence, and deliberate misuse of company resources are not permitted.

8. Information Security

Employees must protect confidential company and client information. Passwords must not be shared. Company data should be stored only in approved systems. Employees must report suspected security incidents, unauthorized access, or accidental disclosure of confidential information to the IT or security team promptly.

9. Internet and IT Resources

Company computers, software, network connections, and other IT resources are primarily provided for business purposes. Employees must not install unauthorized software or intentionally bypass security controls. Reasonable personal use may be permitted when it does not interfere with work or violate company policy.

10. Performance Review

Employee performance may be reviewed periodically based on role responsibilities, quality of work, productivity, team collaboration, attendance, learning, and achievement of agreed objectives. Managers are expected to provide constructive feedback.

11. Training and Development

Employees are encouraged to participate in relevant technical, functional, and professional development programs. Training requirements may be identified during performance reviews or by project and business needs.

12. Travel and Expenses

Business travel must be approved in accordance with the organization's travel authorization process. Eligible business expenses should be supported by appropriate receipts or documentation and submitted within the applicable expense-reporting period.

13. Employee Grievances

Employees who have workplace concerns should first discuss them with their reporting manager when appropriate. Employees may also contact HR for matters requiring confidential review or escalation.

14. Policy Updates

The company may revise policies when business, legal, regulatory, or operational requirements change. Employees are responsible for reviewing official policy communications and following the latest approved version.
